Specialty Health Services

Children with cardiac conditions may have unique medical problems that can be met best by a team with training and expertise in the management of pediatric cardiac conditions. Children with congenital heart defects require continuity and expertise in patient care. A pediatric cardiologist, along with the child's primary care physician, can provide a coordinated treatment plan. The following is a link to guidelines by which evaluation and treatment can be accomplished safely and effectively.

<http://pediatrics.aapublications.org/cgi/reprint/87/4/576>

The link below provides access to a resource that offers guidelines for the care of children with congenital heart defects. www.nlm.nih.gov/medlineplus/congenitalheartdefects.html

Cardiac Care for Children provides examinations by participating pediatric cardiologists and routine tests for children with cardiac conditions in Bismarck, Fargo, Grand Forks and Minot. The program ensures comprehensive and coordinated care through appointment reminders, linkage and referral to other services and programs, and through care coordination as needed. Health-care and financial information is available to families and professionals upon request.

Any child, birth to age 21 who lives in North Dakota may participate with no direct cost to the family. Third-party payers such as private insurance and Medicaid are billed when available.

The Cardiac Care for Children program covers examinations by participating pediatric cardiologists and routine tests to support the cardiac assessments, such as:

Chest X-rays	Echocardiograms
Electrocardiograms	Select laboratory tests

For more information regarding the cardiac program, review the Multidisciplinary Clinic Directory link: www.ndhealth.gov/cshs/docs/clinic-schedule.pdf

Pulse Oximetry Screening

Early identification through pulse oximetry, or "pulse ox," is a simple, non-invasive and painless test that is used to measure the percent oxygen saturation of hemoglobin in the arterial blood and the pulse rate. Pulse ox can help to identify infants with critical congenital heart disease that may have low levels of oxygen in their blood. Pulse ox screening may help diagnose critical congenital heart disease before an infant becomes sick.

Pediatricians and Family Doctors

Lists of primary care doctors who practice in North Dakota are available upon request. All children benefit from a medical home. A medical home is not a building, but rather an approach to providing comprehensive medical care. In a medical home, a physician or other medical provider works in partnership with the family/patient to assure that the medical and non-medical needs of the child/youth are met. Through this partnership, the medical provider can help the family/patient access and coordinate specialty care, educational services, out-of-home care, family support, and other public and private community services that are important to the overall health of the child and family.
